

A6-Text-Analysis: Application Critique

1. The Scarlet Letter seems to have an overall positive sentiment. Most of the parts of the story seem to contain mostly positive words except near the end.
2. Seeing that the sentiment numbers are higher on The Scarlet Letter than A Tale Of Two Cities, I would conclude that The Scarlet Letter is a more positive and friendlier book of the two.
3. Speeches, unlike stories, are written to cater to the people's interests and pry on their fears, hopes, and dreams. This is why the sentiment numbers are both higher and lower than for the novels.
